NEW COUNTY GOVERNMENT BILL IN EFFECT TODAY

SECOND SUPERIOR COURT BILL IN EFFECT; JUDGE WILL BE NAMED TODAY

Several New Deputies Begin Work Today Under Provisions of New County Government Measure

San Mateo county's new county government bill, which was introduced into the last legislature by Assemblyman Harry Parkman, and later signed by Governor Rolph, will go into effect today, and in going into effect will result in several changes in the county system of government.

The chief of these changes, and one which met with considerable opposition from some of the county officers is the abolishment of the fee system by which certain officers are paid partially through fees which are paid into their offices. The opposition to this provision in the bill was caused by the fact that while these fees paid into these offices are no longer to be kept by the officers receiving them, but paid into the county tresury, an increase in salary, designed to compensate for the abolition of the fees. does not take effect during the present term of the county officers.

By the provisions of the bill two officers would cease to receive the fees from their offices. These would be County Clerk E. B. Hinman and County Treasurer Harry Jenkins.

Under the new regulation all the fees heretofore paid to the county clerk and treasurer would be paid into the treasury of the county. Both officials would have their salaries raised to $3900 at the end of their present term of office.

The county auditor, Edward M. Stack gets two additional deputies in his office. So was Assessor D. P. Flynn given additional help by the bill to enable him to proceed with the task of reappraisal of land valuation in San Mateo county.

Flynn's salary of $4000 a year is unchanged. Likewise that of Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney, who gets $3500 for office of tax collector and an additional $500 a year as license collector.

Sheriff James J. McGrath's salary remains at $4500, but he is allowed the addition of a fingerprint expert to his staff by the bill, and an additional bailiff for the second superior court.

The new bill also prohibits the holding by one person of two political offices. The only officer affected by this provision was Couney Clerk E. B. Hinman, who was also city councilman of Redwood City. He had to resign this position, and Charles G. Lambert has been appointed in his place.

County Clerk Hinman is allowed a new deputy in his office, and has announced the appointment of Miss Mary Sullivan of Menlo Park. An additional deputy is provided for in the office of County Recorder T. C. Rice, and he has announced the appointment of Miss Harriett Parkman, daughter of Assemblyman Harry Parkman.

Another provision of the bill is to authorize the payment of the salary of a second deputy district attorney by the county. The salary of Richard Bell, who has had this position for several years, has until now been paid by District Attorney Franklin Swart.

At the same time that the new county government bill goes into effect another measure passed by the last legislature and signed by the governor will take effect. This is the bill providing for a second superior court for this county, and today is the day when Governor Rolph will mage the announcement of his appointee as the second appointee as the second superior judge.

While nothing definite is known of the intention of Governor Rolph at this time, it is rather generally believed that the choice of the governor for this post will be District Attorney Franklin Swart.

Swart has been district attorney of this county since 1912, and is one of the most popular of the county officials. He has been given the endorsement of the county bar association for the position of judge, and is considered to be the most likely candidate for the position.

The appointment of Swart as judge, however, would leave the office of district attorney open, and an appointment would have to be made by the board o supervisors. In the event of the appointment of District Attorney Swart as judge, it is believed that the next move would be the appointment by the board of supervisors of Edmund Scott as district attorney. Scott has been assistant district attorney for several years and is thoroughly in touch with the affairs of the office.

With the formation of the second superior court here, the supervisors are faced with another problem. The porivision of a siutable court room. Two methods of meeting this problem are open to the board. It can either turn the supervisors' chambers over to the use of the court on every day except Monday, when the board meets, or it can rent some building for use as a coure.

The supervisors have received offers of two buildings in twon for this use. One is the old Sequoia Theatre building on Broadway, which was offered by Dave Walter; the other, the former post office building, which was offered by D. R. Stafford.

B'game Woman Facing Charge As Hit-Runner

Dentist's Wife Arrested After Crash with Another Car In Burlingame

Because she was frightened when her car crashed into another machine, Mrs. Ruth Richards, 2515 Poppy drive, Burlingame, wife of a Burlingame dentist, drove off. Mrs. Richards was served with a warrant Wednesday, charging her with hit-run driving in connection with a crash Sunday night in which Burt Winslow's car was wrecked.

The crash occurred near the Winslow home at 1205 Sanchez avenue, Burlingame. After the crash the car which Mrs. Richards has admitted driving, drove away. Winslow was able to take the license number, however, and reported the matter to the Burlingame police.

When the police traced the number to Mrs. Richards' car and served the warrant on her, she admitted driving the car when it caused the crash, but stated that after the accident she was so frightened she did not know what to do, and drove around several blocks. When she finally returned to the scene of the accident, she stated, no one was there, so she went home.

Mrs. Richards will be heard in the court of Judge Joseph V. Gaffey of Burlingame, tomorrow. She was not held by the officers, but is at liberty on her own recognizance.

Rubbish Fire Perils House

A rubbish fire periled a vacant house near the corner of Oliver street and Roosevelt avenue shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A call was sent in from Box 318 and the department responded to find that neighbors had the fire well in hand. There was nothing to indicate how the fire started.

Husband Seeks Divorce

Charging his wife, Verda Claussen with extreme cruelty, Victor Clausen has filed suit for divorce in the superior court of this county. The Clausens were married on January 9, 1929. They have no children nor community property. Clausen is represented in his suit by Pardini & Scampini, South San Francisco attorneys.

A divorce was granted in Reno this week to Mrs. Kitty M. Breese, wife of a former Mills Field pilot. The divorce was granted to Mrs. Breese on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Seeks Smile Fame

This 18-year-old Wenatchee, Wash., girl, Maxine McGinuty, is out to win the title of "Owner of the biggest and best smile in the west." Eight of the most winning smilers competing in the contest will then "smile it out" at the California State Fair at Sacramento Sept. 10 for a gold medal and also a movie tryout in Hollywood.

Miss Ryan Back At County Post

Miss Frances Ryan, who served as deputy county clerk during the latter part of the tenure of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Kneese, will be back at the county clerk's office Monday. The appointment of Miss Ryan followed the resignation of Miss Elizabeth Hole, which was announced this week by County Clerk E. B. Hinman. Miss Hole, prior to her appointment as a deputy in the county clerk's office, was active in chamber of commerce work, and was one of the first appointees of Hinman when he was elected as county clerk.

Miss Ryan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Ryan of this city and is a very poplar and capable young lady, whose experience in the office makes her a valuable addition to the staff.

Auditor Stack Files Report

County Auditor E. M. Stack submitted his report to the State Controller and the State Board of Equalization showing the net valuation of all assessable property in San Mateo county for the fiscal year 1931-32, and upon which the new tax rate will be based, to be $50,545,520. The gross valuations are given as $52,593,840, which amount includes exemptions for soldier owned property and colleges and cemeteries, amounting to $2,139,320. There is an increase over last year's exemptions of $180,710. The increase in gross valuations over last year is $1,019,181, and the increase in net valuations is $838,471.

Stocks, bonds, etc. are valued this year at $15,133,383, as compared to $17,635,853 for 1930-1931.

Railroads and operative property brings the total valuations for 1931-1932 up to $71,032,814 as against $72,721,775 for 1930-1931.

Benefit Dance

A benefit dance will be held in Pescadero on Saturday night, August 29, at the I. D. E. S. hall. Admission will be 50 cents per person. The dance will be preceded by a supper at 50 cents per plate. The dance and supper are being given for the benefit of the homeless children.

$20,000 FIRE DESTROYS PENINSULA PLANING MILL

Raging Fire Perils Near-by Garage; Two Firemen Injured Fighting Spectacular Blaze

ORIGIN OF EVENING FIRE A MYSTERY

Workmen Had Just Left Building When Motorist Discovered Fire

In one of the most spectacular and destructive fires that has visited Redwood City in recent years, the Peninsula Planing Mills at the corner of El Camino Real and Vera avenue, owned and operated by Gust Manuels, was completely destroyed shortly after 5 o'clock last evening. The loss is estimated by Manuels at close to $20,000.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. A passing motorist discovered ered the blaze and turned in an alarm. The fire department responded quickly, but the flames had already made such headway in the dry structure that before water could be turned on the fire had become a regular inferno. The flames leaped hundreds of feet into the air and in all directions, making the heat intense and the work of the firemen under Chief Mark E. Ryan most difficult. So great was the heat that several lines of hose stretched along the highway caught fire and were rendered useless. Telephone cables and electric wires were burned, the falling wires adding to the peril of the fire.

Wind carried the flames directly toward the Davies Garage on the south side of Vera avenue, greatly endangering that building and other structures in the vicinity. With the planing mill doomed, Chief Ryan and his men directed their attention to the garage and adjoining buildings and succeeded in saving them only after a stiff battle.

Two of the volunteer firemen suffered painful burns while fighting the flames. Phil Brand on the left hand, and Emil Allain about the head and face. Both were given emergency treatment.

Manuels was at a complete loss to understand how the fire started. He stated that he and his men had left the building a few minutes after 5 o'clock, closing the place and with everything apparently alright. Ten minutes later the fire was discovered, the building already a seething mass of flames.

Several thousand persons were attracted to the scene of the fire and traffic on the highway was interrupted until the police diverted the machines over side roads.

The planing mill was built by Manuels in 1922 at a cost of $9,000. Over $5,000 in machinery had been installed and there was close to $5,000 worth of material in the building when it was destroyed. The plant was insured for only $4,000.

Exchange Speaker Talks About War

"The Last War and the Next," was the subject of an interesting talk given before the Redwood City Exchange Clug at the Sequoia Hotel, Tuesday evening, by J. M. McAdams, former newspaper man and Canadian War veteran, who saw active service in France.

Harvey Conner acted as chairman of the meeting, which was opened by the president, Edmund Scott.

John E. McCarthy, builder, was welcomed as a new member.

Mill Work Taken; Two Men Arrested

Jack Harris, 23, a hotel worker, and V. Harvey, 22, a draftsman, have found one way to eliminate the high cost of building. The two men were arrested yesterday morning and booked at the county jail on charges of petty theft, placed against them by C. S. Baker, San Carlos contractor.

Baker missed a quantity of mill work from a house which he is building on Walnut street in San Carlos, and notified Chief of Police Wheeler. Wheeler had the house watched by Officer J. A. Gravance, and yesterday morning the latter caught the two men hauling away another load of lumber and mill work. The material was being used they explained, in a summer house, which they were building in Menlo Park.

The value of the material taken, Baker is estimated at about $150. Chief Wheeler is to investigate the summer house and determine, if possible, whether complaints from other contractors on the peninsula, may not have been caused by the same pair.

Recall Threats Said To Be But Empty Rumors

No Basis Found for Report Of Petitions Against County Officers

Threats to circulate recall petitions against Judge Buck because of his action in directing the verdict in the Flood will contest, have continued during this week, but with deminishing intensity. So far as can be learned no petitions have actually been circulated.

Immediately following the action of Judge Buck popular sentiment flared up and reports were circulated in various parts of the county that petitions for the recall of the aged jurist were being signed. While it is reported that a local attorney was approached by a group and asked to draw up such a petition, which he refused to do, no information can be obtained of any petition actually being circulated.

It was also rumored that a petition to recall District Attorney Franklin Swart, one of the attorneys in the Flood case was also being circulated. No basis for this has been found except a statement attributed to a San Francisco attorney to the effect that if 25 people who were not afraid to come out into the open would approach him he would prepare the petitions, for the recall of the judge and district attorney.

It is felt, however, that while popular sentiment favored Mrs. Gavin in her suit, and while popular disappointment was very keen when Judge Buck's action took the matter out of the hands of the jury, it is not indicated that a move to recall him would be successful. And although District Attorney Swart was present as an attorney for Mrs. Flood, it is generally conceded that any move to invoke the recall on that pretext would be only the opportunism of some few political foes of the popular official. It was generally believed around the county offices that any talk of recall was without foundation.

Jack Finer, dairy clerk, was arrested this week by Burlingame police and charged with reckless driving. He will appear today in the court of Judge Joseph V. Gaffey. Finer is now at liberty on a $50 bail.

ATTORNEYS PRESENT MOTION FOR RE-TRIAL TO SUPERIOR COURT

Affidavits Charge Judge Geo. H. Buck with Mis-Trial in Now Famous Trial of Millionaire's Will

A motion for a new trial in the will contest of Mrs. Constance May Gavin, in the estate of James Flood, was filed with County Clerk Hinman yesterday. Affidavits and all other necessary papers were filed by Attorneys John Taaffe and Maxwell McNutt, attorney for Mrs. Gavin, yesterday.

The motion for a new trial is only a formality, as it is a foregone conclusion that it will be denied by Judge Buck, in which case the matter can be appealed to the higher court. The motion charges the court with a long list of errors upon which Taaffe and McNutt base their case of appeal.

Some of the grounds upon which the new trial are demanded are:

"Irregularities in the proceedings of the court, the jury and the adverse parties by which the petitioner (Mrs. Gavin) was prevented from having a fair trial.

"Abuse of discretion by said court by which said petitioner was prevented from having a fair trial.

"Accident and surprise which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against.

"Newly discovered evidence material for the petitioner, which could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at the trial.

"That the decision and order of the above entitled court directing the jury to return the verdict and verdicts on file therein was and is against the law.

"That the evidence introduced at the trial was and is insufficient to justify the court in directing the jury;

"Errors in law occuring at the trial and excepted to by said petitioner."

BIDS RECEIVED FOR SCHOOL ADDITIONS

The trustees of the Redwood City Grammar school opened bids last night for the construction of the new six-room school building in the Eagle Hill subdivision and to make needed improvements and additions to the Garfield school on Middlefield road and the Washington school on the Woodside road. Separate bids were received on each job and each proposal called for several alternatives. The board took the bids under advisement and was to met again last night to award the contracts.

The following were the bidders on the Eagle Hill school:

R. C. Stickle, $43,198; Henry B. Post, $47,220; H. H. Larson, $48,923; Larson & Larson, $51,110; N. T. Sjoborg, $52,500; Geo. Peterson, $50,000; Wilson & Cranahan, $48,974.

The following bids were received on the Garfield school improvements:

R. C. Stickle, $9,000; Henry B. Post, $7,000; H. H. Larson, $8,832; Louis Pollard, $8677; Alec Anderson, $10,400; Larson & Larson, $10,076; N. T. Sjborg, $11,021; H. W. Treichel, $9,749; Gus Waller $8,891; J. Bettencourt, $9,484.60; E. K. Nelson, $10,667.

The following bids were opened for the Washington school improvements:

R. C. Stickle, $7,229; Henry B. Post $7,000; H. H. Larson, $7,123; Louis Pollard, $6,877; Alex Anderson, $8,107; Larson & Larson, $9,254; N. T. Sjborg, $9,999; Gus Waller, $6,425; J. Bettencourt, $7,530; L. A. Batchelder, $7,197.

Following the opening of the bids Wednesday night in the office of the school board in the Central school, John W. Poole, president of the board, addressed the contractors on behalf of his fellow trustees and made a strong appeal that local labor and local material be given the preference in the school work.

The lowest of the bids on the three units of construction were all under the estimate of the architects, Coffey & Rist.

Bonds totaling $65,000 were voted by the electors of the district on June 3 to raise the necessary funds to carry out the improvements.

New Fruit Market To Open Tomorrow

A new fruit and vegetable market will be opened in Redwood City tomorrow at 846 Main street. The new store is being opened by Joe F. Day, formerly of Turlock and Tom Rosa of Morgan Hill. The proprietors of the new store are young men who are thoroughly familiar with the business in which they are venturing. The former has had a long experience in the wholesale friut and vegetable business, and the latter has been until recently manager of a large chain store. They expect by reason of their experience in both wholesale and retail business to be able to bring to the people of Redwood City an unusually fine line of merchandise at prices which are reasonable.

The store which they will occupy has ben cleaned up and put in first class condition for an up-to-date fruit and vegetable market. They are offering on their opening day an unusually fine selection of special bargains, which will be found listed in their ad elsewhere in this paper.

New Law Provides Autos Must Stop As Horses Pass

With the increase of the speed limit for automobiles to 45 miles an hour on the open road and 25 miles in the residential district, we turn the pages back to just thirty years ago.

In the Times-Gazette of August 10, 1901 we find the following:

"The Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara county passed an automobile ordinance at their last meeting. It provides that every automobile must be provided with a good break, a horn, bell or other signal. After dark and an hour before sunrise a light must be displayed on each side of the automobile. In thickly populated parts of the county the speed shall not be greater than ten miles an hour.

"Every person driving an automobile, on arriving within three hundred feet of any vehicle propelled by animal power, or a person leading or driving domestic animals shall slow down to a speed not exceeding six miles an hour, and shall not increase such speed until such vehicle or animal is passed, and every person driving an automobile shall at the request or signal by putting up the hand of a person riding or driving a horse or horses, or leading or driving domestic animals, cause the automobile to immediately stop and remain stopped so long as may be necessary to allow said horse or domestic animals to pass or to get out of the way, and on mountain roads the automobiles shall when meeting vehicles take the outside of the grade.

"The penalty for violating this ordinance is a fine of $25. The ordinance to be adopted by the supervisors of this county at their next meeting is similar."

Not Wanted

Appearing before the Kiwanis Club in old, historic Alexandria, Va., Secretary of Labor Doak denounced organizations which attempt to prevent the deportation of alien radicals. Coincidentally, a newspaper syndicate published an editorial in which criticism was made of the methods employed by Mr. Doak. We quote from the article:

"Some 18,000 aliens have been deported this year, others driven by fear and unrest have gone of their own accord. Under the amended immigration law these deportees may never return to our shores. Their punishment is one of the severest forms known to antiquity—banishment. Many aliens are being banished for petty offenses. . . . Mere membership in the Communist Party is a crime under the Labor Department interpretation of the immigration law. . . . We fear the Secretary of Labor is building the wrong sort of reputation."

There are many, however, who are in hearty accord with the deportation of undesirable aliens—those who have shown contempt for our laws and the sacredness of our institutions. The only criticism that the average American citizen could conscientiously make of Mr. Doak's efforts is that there should be a more general house cleaning of those who are associated with societies "whose announced purpose it is to overthrow the government of the United States by force and violence," quoting Mr. Doak's words.

It has been proven that a large percentage of the outrages committed in this country against human life and property are perpetrated by aliens of the most criminal type, who, unfortunately, are here in great numbers. In no other nation on the face of the earth would such pernicious alien activities be permitted, and it is imperative—in the interest of the government of the United States—that the Labor Department continue to exercise the strictest vigilance and likewise continue its deportation policy toward those aliens who, through illegal activities, have proven their unworthiness to remain in this country.

Juvenile Offenders

Among the reforms that have been undertaken by social welfare organizations, prison officials, and others, is child welfare. Public sentiment rings with pleas for more sensible methods for the treatment of juvenile offenders; and plans for helpful legislation are certain to occupy the attention of most of the legislatures of the different states for years to come.

When groups of the large manufacturing interests blocked the proposed Constitutional Amendment to regulate child labor, most farseeing citizens felt that it was a step backwards.

But apparently American public attention has been directed to the need of securing the right kind of laws, that would be helpful in raising better children, and in reforming the antiquated methods of punishing them.

A Distinction

"In the eyes of the Federal Government a gangster is merely a person. . . ." said David Burnet, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, recently. In most foreign countries the gangster would be more properly classified as a dangerous, unwelcome criminal, and dealt with accordingly.

It seems ludicrous for the Government to "accept" income taxes from these public enemies when, by exerting his great strength and power, Uncle Sam could rid the country of such pests. Well, after all, the gangster's money is as good as the other fellow's and helps to swell the government's coffers.

Government as Dictator

"The growing contempt for law is attributable in large measure to a mistaken zeal for more and ever more law," said Governor Ritchie of Maryland, a short time ago. "The government is no longer the creature and protector of our individual rights, but is rapidly becoming the dictator of them."

Few who are familiar with the course of legislation of the last quarter-century, will deny this. Governments, both state and federal, have shown a steadily increasing disposition to regulate by law the acts of their citizens. Reform movements, based on misunderstanding of human problems, have swept all before them, and the principal result is that the United States is now the most lawless of the great nations.

One wonders when we will again realize that progress comes from the individual, not from the state; that regulation of human conduct can only be successful when it is voluntary, rather than statutory.

Right or Wrong It Took Courage of Convictions

The abrupt ending of the famous Flood will contest last Friday morning, when Judge Buck instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the Flood heirs, brought forth a storm of harsh criticisms against the court for his actions. In making the decision Judge Buck was well within the law. A less courageous man would have sought the lines of least resistance and permitted the case to go to the jury and let it bear the burden of criticism. Judge Buck believed, in the face of adverse public opinion, that sufficient evidence was not presented by the petitioners, to warrant a verdict. In other words the court held that the plaintiff did not prove her case.

Judge Buck may be wrong in choosing the path he did, but whether right or wrong, no one can rightfully question his honesty and integrity. At least those who have followed his long and upright career upon the bench in San Mateo county will be free to admit that he was honest and sincere in arriving at his decision according to law, although it was contrary to public sentiment.

Lazy Dollars or Busy Dollars

By ROBERT R. JOHNSTON
Advertising Executive, New York City

The difference between good business with everybody happy, and bad business with everybody sad is easily understood if we think about dollars as workers. When dollars work they produce—when they are idle they consume.

For instance, here is just a part of the work your dollars do when you make a purchase of a $20 suit or dress.

You pay the retail store $20. The merchant pays the manufacturer $12. For help, rent, light, heat and other expenses he also pays out $7.00. That leaves the merchant $1.00 for his own use, which he spends with the butcher, grocer and candle stick maker. So your $20 has gone right to work.

But it doesn't stop there. The manufacturer who receives $12, puts it to work by paying $4.50 for material, $4.50 for labor, $2 for overhead, and puts $1.00 in his pocket to be spent for food, clothing, shelter and his other needs.

Nor do your busy little dollar-ants stop with the manufacturer. The retail help put their salaries to work, the laborers who made your suit put their wages to work and the landlords spend their rents, the lighting companies, food stores and all others who do business with the host of people who are able to spend a few dollars or a few cents because you have started the ball rolling—all these keep the ball rolling and rolling until its force is spent.

Let's foot it up and see about how much work these busy dollars of yours have done.

The clothier received and put to work $20
The man fctr rec'ved and put to work $12
Landlords received and put to work $7
Retail help received and put to work $6
Labor received and put to work 8
Service Comp. rec'ved and put to work 2
Other retailers rec'ved, put to work 11
Or, a total of money in trade and circulation due to your $20 purchase of $66.

There are about thirty million families in the United States. If each of these families should spend one dollar per day more than they are now spending, the daily turnover in trade and activity would be increased by thirty million dollars per day, over two hundred million dollars per week and over ten billions per year. For every extra dollar that is put in useful work, three and a half to four dollars actually go to work. And every dollar which fear keeps from going to work takes four dollars into hiding with it.

What can you and I do to help put American business back on its feet?

First we must look into our own minds to see if we are really scared.

Second, we must find out what it is that is scaring us.

Third, we must convince ourselves that we are not children to be scared of the dark.

Fourth, we must get a firm grip on our individual courage.

Fifth, we must act with courage on our behalf in ourselves, our community, our country.

With courage and faith in our hearts we will refuse to live cramped lives, refuse to pinch and haggle, insist to ourselves on better living, insist on having the things and surroundings we want.

With that spirit abroad, lazy dollars will go to work.

Tightening up on Bogus Ads

A new scheme for selling stationery by inserting an ad offering employment, has been nipped in the bud by the Federal Trade Commission. The publisher of a magazine who carried the advertising evidently helped to put over such a sheme, and he has been compelled to abandon carrying this "unfair advertising." The Trade Commission threatened to make the publisher a joint respondent with the advertisers. That's a tough way to censor the advertising page of a publication, but the interests of the public appeared to demand that drastic action in this instance.

Whatever else the Flood case does, it recalls a lot of places which have been forgotten for many years. How many recall the Crowe Street Theatre, the Russ House and the old Poodle DogRestaurant?

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate.

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convincing Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CASEO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Thecount sends for Constance's aunt, stying that she will know her own niece. The old lady, on arriving, is not told what has happened, and she accepts Sheila without question.

The result is that the Count, Harry and the Baronne agree that Sheila is temporarily unbalanced.

Chapter No. 36—

She finds herself virtually a prisoner, with a physician and nurses in attendance.

Chapter 37—

Constance Goes to London

When Constance Kerr left the Macedonia at Southampton to set out for London, her mind was in a turmoil. Although she was outwardly calm, she was really in a panic, lest she be challenged by some official during the examination of passports. But the ordeal went off without delay, and her heart beat more normally.

Congratulating herself on her good fortune, she rushed down the gangplank and endured the customs examination with more patience than she had ever shown during similar inspections. Sheila Allen's bags and suitcase were soon chalked, and Constance was ready to start for London.

For the first time in her life she was "on her own." Heretofore, she had always had a maid to make her reservations and arrange the details of traveling. It was a new experience to see to the transferring of her luggage and to stand in line at a ticket-window. Accustomed to luxurious living, she was thankful that her contact with anything below first-class standards would soon be over. In London she would go to a quiet old hotel, where she would not be likely to meet any of her own gay set.

Meanwhile, she waited for her turn at the ticket-window and endured the jostling of the crowd. She could obtain only a second-class ticket to London, and the railway-carriage, when she lugged her luggage into it, was almost filled. She eyed her fellow passengers with distaste, curled up in her seat, and closed her eyes. She had made the journey so many times that it held no thrill for her.

Slowly she reviewed the happenings of the past two weeks — the mad impulse that had culminated in her secret marriage to Bellefonte; her horror at what she had done, almost before the marriage ceremony had been concluded; her grief and anger at finding that Harry's letters had been kept from her; her determination to get away from everything; her flight to Europe; the meeting with Sheila Allen; the agreement whereby Sheila was to impersonate her in Paris while she went to London to find Harry, confess her folly, and beg his forgiveness.

She shrank from the thought of telling Harry of her marriage, but she felt that she must do so. Perhaps he would hate her. Perhaps he would say that he never wanted to see her again. Nevertheless, she must tell him herself. After reading his letters, written since he had gone to London, she knew that it would never do to have him learn the truth in any other way.

When she had made her peace with him, or, at least, had tried to, she would tell her father that she had married the Count de Bellefonte in a fit of pique, but that she loathed him and could never be his wife. Her father would rage, but he would protect her from the Count, she was sure.

When the train pulled into the great gray city of London, Constance wearily gathered her luggage together. It was a dark, gloomy day, and she felt lonely and depressed. The guards opened the doors of the railway-carriage and the passengers streamed out. Constance called a porter.

"I want a cab," she said, and followed the porter as he made his way to the motor entrance. "Take me to the Athenae," she ordered, as a cab drew up and the porter piled her luggage on its top.

The chauffeur looked surprised, and Constance realized, with a grin, that her appearance was not up to the elegant old hotel she had named. As the cab sped along, she tore the tourist cabin labels from Sheila Allen's luggage. "Lucky I thought of that," she murmured. "Wouldn't do to go into the Athenae with that handicap."

When she registered and asked for a suite of rooms and explained that she wanted a maid, since she had not been able to bring her own, the clerk forgot himself and stared.

But before she had been in her rooms more than half an hour, she had found all manner of fault with the service and the appointments. Her attitude convinced both the maid and the management that here was a rich, eccentric American whose wishes must be respected. She tipped lavishly, ordered roses and a most extravagant tea, which she sent away untouched, for she was too excited to eat, and told the clerk that she must have tickets for the newest musical comedy hit. They were obtained with great difficulty — and not used.

During all this, she was telephoning. Harry was no longer at the address he had given in his letters, and she could get no information as to his present whereabouts. As she did not know his business address, the case began to look hopeless. She called several clubs to which she thought he might belong, but with no result.

Thoroughly disheartened, she put on her wraps and went out for a breath of air. The Athenae was near the Thames embankment, and Constance stared at the home-going crowds, wondering, if, by any chance she would see some one she knew. Thousands of people, all strangers. Not a familiar face. How would she ever manage to find Harry? A sob escaped her as she reflected that he might at this minute be thinking of her, wondering where she was, wishing he could see her. Returning to her hotel, she pondered the situation. "Only the town crier can help me now," she thought.

As she had only Sheila Allen's little evening gown she did not go down to the dining-room that night, but ordered dinner sent up.

When the waiter entered her sitting-room, bearing the dinner-tray, she started. He had often served her at Sampson's, a famous old chop-house to which her father used to take her. And Harry had taken her there to lunch on several occasions. The waiter, she was sure, recognized her. When she dismissed him with a generous tip, he said:

"Thank you, Miss Kerr. It's always a pleasure to serve you."

Constance was singing Sheila Allen's name to the check at that moment. She said, without looking up, "My name is not Kerr."

The waiter looked amazed and murmured his apologies. Constance nodded good-naturedly. Her manner emboldened him to say:

"And I'd have taken my oath that you were Miss Kerr. I used to see her in Sampson's with her father, sometimes with a young man — a very handsome young man."

"Indeed?" said Constance. "How interesting."

"Yes," the waiter returned. "A Mr. Edmonds. I saw him at the Racquet club the other night when I was helping out there —"

"The Racquet Club?" said Constance sharply. A thrill of hope ran through her. Perhaps —

"A number of American gentlemen live there," the waiter was saying. "Oh, thank you Miss, thank you very much," he said, for Constance was adding a ten-shilling note to the tip.

When he had left the room, Constance did a few dance-steps and laughed aloud.

The Racquet club. She found the telephone-number and called the club. A pleasant English voice answered. "Mr. Edmonds? One moment."

Constance waited in a fever of impatience and anxiety. Over the wire she could hear the murmur of voices; the heavy laughter of young men; the ringing of a distant bell; and, above all, she could hear the beating of her own heart. Then:

"Sorry, Miss. He's not in. Will you give me a message?"

Her throat so dry that she could scarcely speak, Constance stammered:

"Ask him — tell him to call Miss — Miss Allen, at the Athenae, as soon as he comes in. It's most important."

She hung up the receiver and sank into a chair. She was torn between joy at the thought of seeing Harry, and despair at the terrible situation her insane jealousy had created. So she waited, hoping that he would call soon.

WRECKED TOWN REBUILDS

DALHART, Tex., — (UP)—From the wreckage left in the wake of a cyclone several weeks ago Sedan, N. M., 17 miles west of Dalhart, is gradually rebuilding. A new merchandise store building was opened this week and construction is well under way on a modern $50,000 school plant. Several residences were also demolished.

BODY SCARRED BY 11 DUELS

WESTERVILLE O.—(UP) — Dr. Gustav Meyer, faculty member at Otterbein College here, has on his body the scars of 11 duels fought while he was a student at German universities. At 71 Dr. Meyer longs for olden days when "fighting was a man's sport."

$100,000 CLARK BAIL REVOKED

Dave Clark, former Los Angeles deputy district attorney, on trial for the shooting of Herbert Spencer, editor of a political magazine, has had his $100,000 bail revoked and must remain in jail. Photo shows Frank Benedict (left) and A. H. Van Cott, members of the prosecution, examining guns belonging to Charles Crawford, whom Clark also is accused of shooting.

Speed Not Entirely to Blame

DETROIT. — (UP) — Speed a check of Detroit police records show, is a contributing factor, but is not the chief cause of deaths in traffic accidents. Fast driving, within reasonable limits does not rank as dangerous as merely a failure to comply with general traffic laws. Negligence of pedestrians ranks high as a cause of many accidents, police traffic bureau heads say.

Experts Urge Science College

TOKIO, — (UP) — Dr. Sakurai, Privy Councilor; the president of Tokio Imperial University, the president of Keio University and several other prominent educators called on Cabinet Ministers to urge them to form an institution for the advancement of science in Japan and to train young students for original research work. They stated that the Government may be having difficulties with finances, but the suggested step would help solve this problem in future.

Oregonian Collects Air Letters

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—C. S. Douglas has taken an interest in something modern to collect in one's scrapbook. Several hundred air mail letters sent in first dispatches to airports in almost every part of the union have been received by Douglas. In most cases, the letters were signed by the governors.

BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

"This is my Estate"

Thousands of people—many with modest incomes—have founded substantial estates upon LIFE INSURANCE. Policies now in force in California exceed five billion dollars.

Seasoned in financial judgment, a life insurance company chooses its bank with as much care as its investments.

One of the world's largest companies transacts business through 60 different Bank of America branches.

And more than 25 other life insurance concerns likewise accumulate and distribute their funds through this Bank's statewide system.

Thus millions that would otherwise remain in transit are made available for increased investments in sound first mortgages and bonds.

These investments of life insurance funds—so helpful to the development of California—benefit property owners, business concerns and wage-earners throughout the state.

Bank of America does not sell life insurance, but considers it one of the most important investments. It is a major asset of many estates administered by our Trust Department..... Have you investigated the advantages of a Life Insurance Trust? Ask any Bank of America officer in your community.

RECORD FISH, RECORD TIME

This 446-pound Marlin sword fish was hooked by Francis McGrath off Catalina island and brought to the gaff in an hour and 35 minutes. The fish is said to be the largest of its kind ever taken on rod and reel in southern California waters. The quick time in landing the huge fighter also is considered remarkable.

ZUPPKE COUNTS ON ILLINOIS SOPHOMORES

URBANA, Ill., Aug. 13. (UP)—The University of Illinois football aspirations for the coming season depend almost entirely upon the efforts of a contingent of husky sophomores.

Coach Bob Zuppke is looking forward to the play of these men who formed the freshman squad last year rather than on the 14 lettermen who remain.

"Everything depends upon how many members of last year's freshman squad will be available," Zuppke said. "There are always losses from various causes and we can't tell our prospective strength until September.

"We must look to these sophomores rather than the nucleus of lettermen. Our team last year played good football but only for half a game—the boys gave everything they had but lacked vitality and stamina."

Study Physical Education

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 13 (UP)—Bill Chandler, head basketball coach at Marquette University; John Hancock, Marquette hockey instructor; Marshall Diebold, director of athletics at Carleton College; Arthur Murray, coach of Wooster College and Bennie Strickland, athletic director at Austin, Tex., all are enrolled in the University of Wisconsin course in physical education this summer.

Speedy Heave Breaks Arm

BELLEVILLE, Kans., Aug. 13 (UP)—Avery Davis, who pitched for a sandlot ball team here recently, made such an effort to "throw a hard one" that he broke his arm.

BASEBALL PLAYER, 60, SPURNS SPIKED SHOES

TECUMSEH, Mo., Aug. 13 (UP)—Spiked shoes are all right if a baseball player likes 'em, but they don't do him "no good," according to Sol Strong, who has played baseball for 50 years and has not yet worn the spikes.

Sol joined a local team when he was 10. Now he's 60 and still plays every Sunday with the Tecumseh nine. And not even the flint rocks of the Ozark sandlots can make him put on shoes. He wear 'em other times, but not when he wants to run and have his toes catch hold. He plays first base, too.

Summer Squad Increases

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13 (UP)—During the five years that Heinie Miller has been football coach at Temple University he has seen the squad increase from no candidates until this season 155 athletes offered to pay their way to the summer grid camp in an effort to make the squad.

Two Play City Ball

DETROIT, Aug. 13 (UP)—Two former members of the Detroit Tigers now are playing city league baseball here. Buddy Veach, old-time Detroit outfielder, is batting at a .400 clip in the city competition, while Bernie Boland, pitcher, has rounded into shape.

More than 100 of these untamed desert horses will be ridden during the fiesta.

SPEAKING of SPORT

BY FRANK GETTY

Arlington Race Meet Marked by Success

Arlington Park, operated on a non-profit, sport for sport's sake basis, staged perhaps the most successful race meeting of the year at its picturesque course on the outskirts of Chicago.

During the 30 days of racing in July and August upward of $700,000 was distributed in purse money. Jockey club officials estimated that the attendance was larger than at any other race track in the country. The track will make a nice profit and the money will go back into the plant in the way of additional improvements.

Among the outstanding features of the meeting were:

1. Mate's victory over Twenty Grand in the Arlington Classis, richest race in the world for three-year-olds.

2. Sun Beau's victories in the Arlington Cup and Handicap which established Willis Sharpe Kilmer's gallant six-year-old as the greatest money winner on the American turf.

In winning the Alington Cup Sun Beau set a new mile and a quarter record of two minutes, one and four-fifth seconds, one of the fastest races ever run at that distance. In winning the Arlington Handicap, Sun Beau's purse of $27,300 made him the greatest money winner of all time with $330,044. Gallant Fox was the previous holder of the record with $328,165.

The new track records made follow:

Five furlongs: Misty (2), 109 pounds, 58 3-5 secs.

Six furlongs: Epithet (3), 112 pounds, 1 min. 10 1-5 secs.

Seven furlongs: Knight's Call (3), 109 pounds, 1 min, 22 4-5 secs.

Mile and one-eigth: Sun Beau (6), 125 pounds, 1 min. 9 2-5 secs., equalling Blue Larkspur's record made in 1930.

Mile and a quarter: Sun Beau (6), 126 pounds, 2 min. 14-5 secs.

Mile and a half: Ladrone (4), 109 pounds, 2 min. 32 2-5 secs., equalling Comet's record made in 1930.

Steeplechase course: About two miles, Gracie (8), 138 pounds, 3 min 56 3-5 secs.

About two and one half miles: Indigo (5), 152 pounds, 4 min. 59 secs.

Carnera-Campolo Steam-up Next Job for James Joy

James Joy Johnston, fight promoter, whose assets include an efficient group of publicity men, probably will have to employ his "ballyhoo" department overtime if the Victorio Campolo-Ernie Schaff bout at Ebbs Field Brooklyn, Aug. 26 is to be a financial success.

It is difficult to envision any great throng battling for seats when an apparently mediocre foreign heavyweight meets a young man who has yet to win his spurs. But James Joy probably will find some way to steam up enough interest so that he will at least break even.

As masters of "ballyhoo," Johnston and his publicity men are of the first water. They put over the Primo Carnera-Pat Redmond fight by billing it as the world's worst fight to determine the world's worst heavyweight. Of course, everybody knew that there were worse heavyweights than Redmond—bad as he is—but they fell for the ballyhoo, hook, line and sinker. On the other hand, it may have been Carnera's Italian following, or the desire of America's sporting public to witness freak events that put the fight over.

And now, apparently working on the theory that you can fool a great many of the people all of the time—particularly if they are boxing fans, James Joy has signed the Argentine heavyweight and the Boston youngster, a protege of Jack Sharkey, for a ten-round bout. In more ways than one, it looks as if James Joy is adding insult to injury to those fans who were unortunate enough to throw away perfectly good money on the Carnera-Redmond fight.

What drawing power Johnston expects of Campolo and Schaaf is a mystery. Tommy Loughran demonstrated that the Argentine battler was not of the front rank. Campolo is big and he can hit, not as hard as many heavyweights, but hard enough to knock out second-raters.

As to Schaaf, he is an unknown quality. Sharkey believes Schaaf some day will win the title held by Max Schmeling, but the boxing experts who have seen Schaaf work believe he is as near the championship now as he ever will get.

CARDINAL FANS FORGIVE BREADON'S TWO TRADES

ST. LOUIS Aug. 14—(UP)—Cagey Sam Breadon St. Louis Cardinal president is smiling sweetly at the baseball fans here who groaned "There goes the pennant," when Jim Bottomley was benched, and Taylor Douthit traded to Cincinnati.

For two men in their first year of major league baseball are outdoing those two stars, vindicating Breadon's astute judgment of their ability. They are "Pepper" Martin, awkward but speedy centerfielder, whose bat carries a ponderous wallop, and "The Ripper" Collins, performing at first base like Bottomley of other days.

In the present pennant drive, these two "rookies" and Paul Derringer, another newcomer, are in the vanguard of the Cardinal offensive. All three were with Rochester of the International League last year.

Martin and Collins are hitting around .300, while Derringer bids fair to win 20 games for the Red Birds before the season ends. As a trio of rookies who made good, they are almost incomparable.

Collins plays first a great deal like Bottomely—who is his hero. He throws left handed, and has a swagger like Jim's. It is difficult to distinguish the two Collins, however, has been hitting. That was one reason Bottomley has been on the bench. "Ripper" is a turn-around batter, and dangerous in the pinches.

Fans Hail Martin's Center-fielding

Martin has won his way into the fans' graces here by his "give it all" spirit. When Douthit, probably one of the greatest defensive fielders of the game today, went to Cincinniti in exchange for cash and Wallie Roettger, some sports writers wrote finis to the pennant drive. Breadon, at the time, said Martin was too good a player to stay on the bench, and Breadon has proved himself right.

In Derringer, the Cardinals have found the pitcher they needed to spread-eagle probably the best mound staff in the league. Along with Grimet-Hallahan-Haines. Rhem-Johnson, he has shown he can take his turn and deliver.

Jugs of Gold Cause of 5 Suits

BUFFALO, Ill., Aug. 14—(UP)—Two brown jugs, filled to the top with gold coins totaling $6.028 and found hidden underground, here, have started authorities into searching old laws to determine which of six claimants to the "treasure" is entitled to it.

The jugs were buried, it is believed, 50 years ago by Peter T. Leeds, a physician and pioneer resident. They were found several weeks ago by workmen digging a sewer trench in the center of the business district, which at one time was part of Leeds' land.

E. G. Jack and James J. Rogers, the two workmen who found the jugs, discovered them when the spade of one of them scraped against their sides.

Immediately there was a miniature gold rush, but it finally subsided and was followed by disputes over ownership.

Alexander Booth, present owner of the property, not only claimed the gold, but took possession of it.

No sooner had Booth tucked the "find" away than a second claimant appeared, in the person of officials of Sangamon county. They based the county claim on an 1874 law providing that found property belongs to the county, unless the original possessor of the land, or his heirs, make a claim. They also have to be proved by the original possessor or his heirs.

While Booth and county officials wrangled, two granddaughters of Leeds, who died 50 years ago, started court proceedings to gain the gold.

Then came Jack and Rogers, who filed a trover suit, claiming that under an old English law the finder of "hidden treasure" is entitled to keep it.

Instrument for Zero Mile Post

Greenwich Observatory To Have Modern Telescope

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(UP)—The World's zero mile post is to have a new set of instruments, according to a dispatch received recently by the National Geographic Society.

The Greenwich Observatory, near London, England, is probably the most widely known observatory in the world, due to the fact that most maps mark Greenwich as zero longitude.

The center of the observatory tower on Flamsteed Hill, two and one-half miles below London, on the Thames, is the official zero longitude for virtually all navigators. For some time, before the advent of transatlantic cables, Washington was the zero mark for American geographers, due to the fact that no correct signals could be sent between England and the United States, but following the circling of the globe by cables Greenwich became known as the zero mile post.

An unpretentious borough patch of London, the first observatory, established by Charles II at Greenwich in 1675, was without instruments, but John Flamsteed, first Astronomer Royal, enlisted the aid of friends for his pet project, and Greenwich, by the time of his death in 1719, had reached a position of world renown.

At the present the only new instrument contemplated for Greenwich is a telescope to put the ancient observatory on a par with its more efficient but less widely known rivals. None of the other instruments housed at Greenwich, which include the official clock and weights and measures of England, will be changed at this time.

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 14—(UP)—It's a mystery how the word gets around, but the minute governor Rolph sets foot in the state capitol, his office is filled with a clamoring crowd of jobseekers.

Between a deer hunt in Calaveras county and a sagehen hunt with Governor Fred Balzar in Nevada, the governor found a day to spend in his office here, conferring with candidates for jobs.

Many of those hopeful of getting state positions wanted to land in the department of agriculture. Somehow or other, the news has gone out that the new director, Dudley Moulton, is going to make a housecleaning from top to bottom.

It must be admitted that Moulton has helped create that impression, for already he has fired one veteran agriculture official, created two new divisions, and boosted one technologist from the ranks over the head of his superior.

The two new divisions are quarantine administration, with A. C. Fleury, formerly senior quarantine supervisor, as chief; and entomology, to be headed by Moulton himself. Political observerers are trying to figure out what that makes W. C. Jacobsen, who has been chief of the state division of plant quarantine and pest control, from which the two new agencies were carved. Jacobsen was acting director of argiculture prior to Moulton's appointment.

Theodore Macklin was named chief of the state division of markets, while Harry J. Eustance, former chief, was ousted. Macklin, nationally-known marketing expert, was associated with the federal grape control board last year.

Mrs. Pheba Crawford Splivalo, "Angel of Broadway" nailed to the mast the rumor that she had ambitions to succeed Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn, in an address before a Fresno service club.

"I'd be a fool at 33 to sell out all I have gained in my career as a social worker and a friend of the poor or the sake of political office," she said.

Of interest politically, in view of the forthcoming battle in California for the presidency, is the fact that Allan Hoover, son of President Hoover is occupying his father's cabin in picturesque Bohemian grove in Sonoma county. Young Hoover has been a welcome guest at breakfasts, luncheons and dinners of many prominent clubmen, and recently breakfasted frequently with Colonel William H. Crocker, former Republican national committeeman from California.

Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, is under consideration for the position of city manager of Pasadena, a post paying from $15,000 to $20,000 a year, it was learned this week. Vandegrift said he was not a candidate for the job, but if an offer came to him he "would be bound in courtesy to consider it."

It is widely rumored that Fred E. Stewart, Alameda county member of the state board of equalization, may seek the new congressional position created in his county. He may not make the race, however, as it is well known that he would some day like to be governor of California.

The Spring Valley Water Co. is arranging to lay seven miles of a pipe line across the bay from Niles Canyon to Belmont. The pipe will be 40 inches in diameter and will connect with the pumping works at San Carlos.

Mrs. H. S. Johnston of Ivy Cottage gave an afternoon tea Wednesday in honor of Miss Reynolds and Miss Betty Yantis, both of Kansas City, who came to the coast with the Epworth League. They have been visiting friends in Redwood City for the past week. A number of ladies of this city were present and had an enjoyable time.

The excavations for the foundation of Hynding's new hotel are nearly complete. They show the design for a large building.

The funeral of the late John Eschenbacker last Sunday was one of the largest ever held in this vicinity. The line of vehicles was about a mile long, including a number of large wagons carrying from ten to fifteen persons each. Representatives from all parts of the county were present.

E. A. Husing's wagon looks like a new one since it has received its new coat of paint.

Henry W. Seal, of Mayfield, has an artesian well close to his residence which discharges more water than he knows what to do with. He works a ram with the overflow and pumps all the water needed for domestic purposes for irrigating his lawn and gardens and for the use of his stock, and then has enough running to waste to keep his large fish pond filled with water. He considers the well worth $50,000.

Messers Hanson Co., of this city have a contract to furnish the De Lesseps Panama Ship Canal Company with about 40,000,000 feet of lumber. The great bulk of this lumber is pine, and is being shipped direct from the mills on Puget Sound. Some redwood is included, and this is being shipped by small vessels from this place. The supply required from here will probably take all the surplus that can be manufactured at the LaHonda mill and hauled in here this season. It will give employment to all the teamsters who may be seeking jobs.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD, Aug 14 (UP)—Instead of being some supernormal product of our modern world, the girl who agrees that woman's place is in the home, but not entirely, is only taking a page from her grandmother's book, declares Ann Harding, film star.

Miss Harding, incidentally, is happily married to Harry Bannister, an actor. She has combined her place on the screen with the distinction of being wife, mother and charming home maker.

"I've never been able to understand all the current furor over men and women working shoulder to shoulder," the star said. "Certainly, we aren't the first generation to do it.

"Our pioneer grandmothers managed their homes, raised their families and, we hope, kept their husbands happy. Yet hundreds of them worked in the fields beside their men. They helped earn the living by assisting with plowing and hoeing and harvesting. I've never heard any complaint leveled against them for these activities, which most assuredly took women out of their so-called province of the home.

"Nowadays, few men are engaged in tilling the soil and clearing the land. Those who are, employ modern mechanical devices, which do away with the necessity for many human assistants, just as women employ modern home aids to lessen their tasks.

"If it was commendable for a woman to bend her back in breaking soil, to help her man get along in the world, why isn't it quite as worthy for her to labor in offices, factories, or the world of art, either to help the family exchecquer, or to achieve her own ambitions?"

"When Grandmother put on her sunbonnet to do a little outdoor work, she frequently left the babies in the care of an older sister, or a neighbor's child for hours at a stretch. No one accused her of neglecting them. When the modern woman leaves her home for some occupation she prefers to housekeeping, her children are left in the care of a competent maid or nurse. Is that neglect?

"Of course not every woman worked outside her home, even in the pioneer days. Much depended on the financial status and the rest on the woman herself.

"The same is true today. Ninety per cent of the women who work do it for financial reasons..

"Most of the discontented, unsuccessful wives of today are not those playing the dual roles of work and home making. They are women of too much leisure But I think this has been true in every era. From Eve to us, busy women haven't had time to magnify petty troubles or to brood over fancied thoughtlessness on a husband's part."

Douglas Feature Will Open First Show at Baywood

The date of the opening of San Mateo county's newest place of amusement, The Baywood Theatre, San Mateo has been definitely set for Thursday evening, August 20, by the owner and managing director, D. B. Levin. Doors will open promptly at six o'clock, with first performance starting at seven and the second at nine o'clock. The feature attraction for the opening is the latest production of Douglas Fairbanks, "Reaching For The Moon", in which he is so ably assisted by Bebe Daniels and Edward Everett Horton. It is a modern lively story in which Fairbanks is permitted to display his great talents. The story is set against a background of ultra modernistic settings so in keeping with the decorative scheme of the peninsula's newest and most beautiful theatre. Appropriate short subjects will accompany the feature, with the entire program remaining for a three day run, ending with the Saturday performances which begin at two o'clock and run continuously until eleven. On Sunday August 23, Charlie Chaplin's latest and most talked about picture, "City Lights" will begin a thre day showing. Popular prices will prevail at The Baywood, opening night as well as thereafter, the general admission being thirty-five cents, loges fifty cents and children ten cents at all times.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

"I've learned to forget about cooking dinner . . . since buying an Electric Range"

"BEFORE I bought an electric range, cooking dinner seemed to be always upon my mind. Now I can forget about it because my electric range cooks food automatically."

With an electric range you spend just enough time to put the meal in the oven. You set the time and temperature controls and leave the house if you wish, with the assurance that there will be a completely cooked meal awaiting your return.

For an average cost of 1c a meal per person for electric cooking you save hours of watching, waiting, stirring and basting. And electric cooking is as clean as sunshine. Then, too, the electric oven heats up to 400 degrees in 9 to 11 minutes. Platform cooking elements are faster.

Come in and see the electric range. You can have one installed for a few dollars down and a few dollars a month.

MENLO PARK

The city council met in regular session Tuesday. All members answered roll call. The regular order of business was suspended in order to open bids for improvements on Johnson, Crane, Millie, Rose and Arbor avenue and University Drive. C. W. Wood, the contractor who did the work in Stanford Park, was the lowest bidder and was awarded the contract. There were seven estimates in all and were as follows: C. W. Wood, $32,272.46; W. A. Dantonville, $37,017.51; Irving L. Ryder, $46,478.74; A. G. Raisch, $40,548.10; L. C. Seidel, $37,427.91; Valley Paving and Construction Company, $35,676.14; Albert Helwig, $42,046.25. Work on the contract is to be started next week. Wood did such a satisfactory job in Stanford Park that the council was delighted in awarding him the contract.

The appointment of a pound-master came up for discusion but no action was taken by the council. A suitable man could not be found to take the position. Chief Love said that Palo Alto pound could be used to impound canines and dispatch them if necessary. The chief was authorized to secure a suitable person to fill the job.

A petition was read by the clerk signed by 138 citizens of Menlo Park and directed to the California Highway Commission asking its permission to have installed two automatic traffic signals, one on Santa Cruz avenue at the highway and one across the street at the bank building. Mayor Weeden said that the General Electric Co. had agreed to install the signals for $499.35. Two steel poles are to be used. These signals would stop traffic for 45 seconds on the highway and 15 seconds on the cross streets. The council decided to install the machine and Mayor Weeden was authorized to see the highway commission on the subject.

E. B. Huggins, residing on Hermosa Way, presented a petition of sixteen property owners living on the street asking that no action be taken on a petition before the council urging the improvement of that thoroughfare. The petition stated that the owners wanted time to study the quality of material to be used and the method of procedure. Mayor Weeden told the speaker that no action was to be taken on the first petition as it lacked sufficient signatures. The Huggin petition was ordered filed for future reference.

An ordinance was adopted providing for the fixing of the tax rate for the ensuing year. The budget is to be fixed shortly when the rate is to be considered.

Plans and specifications will be received for improvements on Live Oak avenue, Curtis street and Doyle street on Thursday evening, July 13, at which time the resolution of intention is to be adopted.

County Auditor Stack's annual statement showing the assessable property in the city to be $894,805 was received and filed. It further disclosed that the city and town lots to be valued at $424,650; improvements thereon, $379,190; real estate acreage $12,600; improvements thereon $18,750; personal property secured, $24,400; personal property unsecured, $30,715; total $890,305; stocks and bonds, $4,500, making a grand total of $894,805.

The council adjourned to Thursday evening, July 13.

Roland Midgley, the popular native son, was united in marriage at Berkeley on July 25 to Miss Velma Hall of Long Beach. The honeymoon was spent in the Canadian Rockies and at Glacier National Park, Montana. The happy young couple arrived home on Saturday last and are residing at Redwood City temporarily. A cosy home is to be erected at Menlo Park on the property of Mr. Midgley's in Stanford Park in the near future. The romance of the couple began a few years ago when the pretty bride visited friends here.

The bride is a charming and winsome girl who makes and holds friends. Mr. Midgley is a substantial citizen, a young man respected by everyone. He has been the treasurer of Menlo Parlor N. S. G. W. for many years.

A portion of the Timothy Hopkins prune orchard planted many years ago, is being uprooted. The trees are old and no longer bear fruit with profit to the owner. It is believed the whole orchard is to be dug out. It has not paid for a number of years.

The Native Sons have appointed a committee to make arrangements for the local parlor's participation in the festivities on the 9th of September at Los Angeles. Many from Menlo Parlor will attend the celebration. The committee is to secure headquarters in one of the main hotels where guests are to be entertained.

Attorney Jim Davis returned from his mines on the South Fork of the Salmon river last week after a month's absence. He says the property is rich and is producing such high grade ore that he intends to work the mine on a big scale. He has spurned all offers from capitalists to aid him in the operation of the property. He wants all the profit himself. More power to his elbow.

The East Palo Alto fire department stopped a grass fire on O'Keefe street on Friday night after it had burned over an acre.

Mayor M. A. Harris of Atherton has awarded a contract to Weeden Brothers for the construction of a modern home back of Menlo Golf links, the cost of which is to be $35,000. It is to be an imposing structure, modern in every respect. Mayor Harris awarded the contract, Mayor Jordan of Belmont is to do the grading and Mayor Weeden is to do the work. In as much as the three mayors are conected with the affair it goes without saying that the job will be done satisfastorily as the three officials serve as heads of their municipalities with ability, honesty and rare efficiency.

A statue of Saint Theresa, the Little Flower, was dedicated in the Church of the Nativity last Sunday at the 10:30 mass. A sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached by Father Bernard of St. Charles parish in San Francisco. Father Bernard was raised in Menlo Park and was ordained at St. Patrick's Seminary some years ago. The sermon was eloquent and portrayed the beautiful life of the sainted woman. The costly statue was cast at the home of Saint Theresa in France and was given to the church by a wealthy person who had received spiritual favors of the Little Flower. The statue cost several thousand dollars. It is certainly a work of art.

Frank Clothier is here on a visit with relatives. Mr. Clothier is a former Menlo boy. He is a member of the San Francisco police department, having secured the appointment to the department about a month ago. His uncle Thomas Maloney and a cousin are also members of the force.

The Sacred Heart Convent will give a retreat for the ladies of the parish and all others desiring to make the retreat on August 18. It will continue for a week. The nuns of the convent have just completed a retreat of a week. Ladies from all portions of the peninsula will attend.

Arthur Burchfield, who passed away in San Francisco on Monday, was the father-in-law of Mrs. Edna Burchfield, a former resident of Menlo Park. The deceased at one time resided in Palo Alto.

Edward Colling, who up until recently lived in the Hermosa tract, is spending a portion of his vacation here. He holds a responsible position in the customhouse in San Francisco.

IN LOVE SUIT

Marlene Dietrich, German film star, who "made good in a large way" in this country, today faces the possibility of having to make good to the tune of $500,000. Alienation of affections suits totaling this amount have been filed against her in New York by Mrs. Josef von Sternberg, wife of the movie director. Mrs. von Sternberg charges that Marlene, while making the hearts of movie fans go pitty-pat under Sternberg's directing, also won his heart.

CHARGE REDUCED

The charge against him reduced from one of driving while drunk, to one of reckless driving, Garnet King, 40, an attendant at the U. S. base hospital at Menlo Park, was this week fined $50 in the court of Judge Jean Hoss of Menlo Park. King paid the fine.

Wife Seeks Divorce

A complaint for divorce was filed in the office of County Clerk E. B. Hinman this week in which Mrs. Hannah McKasson charges her husband, David O. McKasson with willful neglect. The couple was married in Oakland, November 13, 1928. Mrs. McKasson is represented in her action by Alexander Sheriffs, San Francisco, attorney.

Week at the State Capital

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 14—(UP)—Governor Rolph apparently believes residents of California are working too hard.

Such an impression might be gained from his proposal to declare a six-day holiday beginning September 4 to mark the opening of the Los Angeles fiesta.

The plan was proposed by the governor to link a half-holiday, admission Day and Labor Day into one continuous "work moratorium."

The proposal was not well received by banks and business firms, and it was indicated they would observe only the two regular holidays.

California state institutions are to be made safer by the installation of new fire fighting equipment and the inauguration of a new fire inspection service.

The improvements were ordered this week by Dr. J. M. Toner director of institutions, after an inspection tour had revealed asserted "extremely dangerous" conditions.

New fire engines and auxiliary apparatus costing $25,000 will be installed in the state hospitals, and a deputy state fire marshal is to be appointed to make regular inspections, superintend fire drills and eliminate fire hazards.

Figures on file with the state department of institutions reveal that there are nine times as many "alcoholic inebriates" in the state hospitals as were confined on the same date in 1921.

The number of men and women in state institutions to receive treatment for acute alcoholism has climbed steadily each year since the prohibition laws went into effect.

In 1921 there were 19 habitual drunkards in the state hospitals. Today there are 172, an increase of 900 per cent.

The 1933 legislature may be "shorter and snappier" if science is mixed with politics.

The adoption of the electric method of voting in the legislature probably will be recommended to the 1933 session by the special assembly committee named to report on changes in legislative procedure.

C. W. Booth, secretary of the committee, recently made an inspection tour of several states using the voting machines. He reports that long roll calls are reduced by means of "button voting" and considerable time is saved. The machine makes a permanent record of each vote.

The 1931 California state fair is to be a "smiling exposition" with Governor James "Sunny Jim" Rolph playing one of the principal parts as a purveyor of sunshine and happiness.

According to fair officials the bands will play "Smiles," to crowds, they hope, will wear smiles, and to climax it all the champion smiler of the Pacific Coast will be decorated with a gold medal.

The champion smiler of the west will be chosen September 10, Governor's day, following a photographic contest in which hundreds of smile pictures are being submitted.

BUILDING PERMITS

The following building permits were issued by City Building Inspector I. C. Drathman during the week:

John Watts, 1628 Redwood avenue, porch addition, $50; C. W. Magruder, 257 Vera avenue, gas vent, $15; M. A. Jones, 1813 Middlefield Road, porch addition, $100; Mrs. Hilda McGovern, 11 Arch street, frame garage, $150; M. Brewer, 257 Furton, residence, $5,000; L. Christensen, 751 El Camino Real, alterations to store, $250; Morris & Weiner, 429 Grand, residence, $4,000; Andrews Investment Co., 16, 18, 20 and 30 California street, addition to permit, $6,200.

Campaign Started For Elimination Of All Crossings

A campaign of education to reduce crossing accidents was discussed at a meeting of the Peninsula Grade Crossing Conference, held in Burlingame, Tuesday evening. Speakers will be sent out by the conference to address various organizations of the county in regard to the grade crossing elimination plan of the conference.

The crossing elimination conference states that the problem of elimination of grade crossings on the peninsula will require about $15,000,000, and legislation providing for the appropriation of the necessary costs is to be sought by the conference. The campaign is aimed at securing the necessary legislation at Sacramento.

It was also decided to ask the tri-county conference consisting of the counties of San Mateo, San Francisco, and Santa Clara, to draft a set of by-laws for the crossing conference.

Newspapers Aid In Suppression Of 3rd Degree

Wickersham Commission In Report Indicates Brutal Methods Used

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (UP)—By "constant publicity" newspapers can do much to stop "third degree" police brutality, the Wickersham commission reported today to President Hoover.

The report, teeming with hair-raising details of mental and physical torture by police and by representatives of prosecutors' offices, found the use of the third-degree widespread in cities. Ten out of fifteen cities visited by commission workers were found to have third-degree practices. Proved instances of the third-degree were found in 29 cities.

The investigators found that the third-degree does not coincide with police efficiency and lack of crime.

Chicago, where the "goldfish room," originated as a torture chamber, with facetious police taking suspects to "see the goldfish," has plenty of crime, whereas Boston, where no police third-degree was found, has little crime.

Boston and Newark were cited as places where the press has viciously opposed violence. In Boston the press "is on the job and editorially opposed to police lawlessness." No Boston newspaper seems to be tied up with the police department, it was said. In Newark, it was found "the absence of police brutality is partly due to the press," as "the police know that if they go too far the newspapers will not stand for it."

The report, devoted to "lawlessness in law enforcement" also included a section of unfairness in prosecutions, in which were given examples of hasty trials, delayed trials, deprivation of counsel, improper jury lists, inexcusable use of inadmissable evidence.

This section, written by Zeckartan Chaffee, Jr., Wilter H. Pollak, and Carl S. Stern—who also wrote the third-degree report—proposed a comprehensive system of changes in court practices, for all of which the commission urged consideration by Congress and state legislatures.

Mrs. Catherine Hallett has been selected by Auditor E. M. Stack to serve in his office as typist. She is to fill one of two positions provided by the county government bill which goes into effect tomorrow. Mrs. Hallett is an accomplished typist of wide experience.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 12—(UP)—Fish and game law violators in California totaled 203 last month, with fines amounting to $5,050.

This was reported by Daniel H. Blood, director of natural resources, to Governor Rolph. Three fines of $200 each were imposed for netting trout, killing a doe, and violating the abalone law. Six $100 fines were assessed, four being for illegal possession of deer meat, one for operating a drag net, and one an abalone violation.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 14—(UP)—More than $1,157,413 in overdue wages was collected by the state last year and paid over th workers according to a report of the bureau of labor statistics and law enforcement.

often regrets marrying young. Mrs. Knagg was telling a neighbor how tender her husband was after 30 years of married life. "I should think he would be tender after being in hot water 30 years," replied her friend. There's a lot of truth in that; there's also a lot of truth in our claim that our shoes combine impressive good looks with unexcelled wear resisting value. Every pair is a real style leader, modishly fashioned and constructed throughout to give grateful foot comfort. ....
